Originally published in 1963 this volume surveys various aspects of the complex relations between rights in land, social organization and economic interests in tropical Africa. The papers - in English and French but with summaries in the other language - analyse case studies illustrating the various basic factors and problems connected with land in Tropical Africa. Indigenous systems of tenure and their adaptation to commercial agriculture, the balance between rights and obligations of groups and individuals, and the authority and duties of chiefs and headmen are discussed in detail for many different areas. Against this background important contributions are made towards the better understanding of problems raised by economic and political development, population increase, migration and scarcity of land.

The Academy is an institution for the study and teaching of public and private international law and related subjects. Its purpose is to encourage a thorough and impartial examination of the problems arising from international relations in the field of law. The courses deal with the theoretical and practical aspects of the subject, including legislation and case law. All courses at the Academy are, in principle, published in the language in which they were delivered in the "Collected Courses of the Hague Academy of International Law." This volume contains: - La contribution de la Conférence de La Haye au développement du droit international privé, par A.E. VON OVERBECK, professeur emerite a l'Université de Fribourg. - The Contribution of the Hague Conference to the Development of Private International Law in Latin America by A. BOGGIANO, Professor at the University of Buenos Aires. - The Contribution of the Hague Conference to the Development of Private International Law in Common Law Countries by J.D. McCLEAN, Professor at the University of Sheffield. - The Incidental Question in Private International Law by T.S. SCHMIDT, Professor at the University of Aarhus.

Games form an integral part of life and the rules that determine how they are to be played provide us with rich insights into the specific nature of cultures. Comprising theoretical, philosophical, and legal discussions, the contexts of game playing are comprehensively examined in essays which range widely through time and space. In focussing on the topic of game playing this volume of essays - which stems from a Transcultural symposium on the transcultural key-concept of "the rules of the game" - engages in a fresh way with the field of sports as a unique and yet shared cultural phenomenon.

L'accent est mis sur certains des aspects les plus contemporains du débat : peut-on parvenir à une définition de la règle de Droit ? La normativité juridique a-t-elle ou non un caractère impératif ? Qu'est-ce qui distingue le Droit de la morale ou de la religion ? Ce livre voudrait en outre promouvoir une conception particulièrement « ouverte » de la connaissance du Droit, en le confrontant à d'autres cultures et à d'autres disciplines -- tant il est clair qu'un regard exclusivement juridique sur le Droit a un caractère déformant. La démonstration de Denys de Béchillon s'organise en deux temps. Il insiste d'abord sur le rôle considérable que joue l'État dans le processus d'identification de la règle juridique. L'État, en effet, a un monopole absolu sur l'édition du Droit ; c'est lui qui détermine l'appartenance ou la non-appartenance d'une norme à la catégorie préconstituée des règles de Droit. Il s'avère ensuite que cette manière de voir occulte une masse de phénomènes qui, justement, ne peuvent être rapportés à l'institution étatique. L'auteur s'attache donc à montrer que le Droit peut et doit être défini autrement dans certaines sphères (sociétés sans pouvoir étatique, groupes locaux porteurs de traditions propres, étrangers rassemblés, etc.). Ces minorités secrètent en effet leur "Droit" à des titres divers, et si la puissance publique refuse d'y voir la moindre manifestation d'un phénomène juridique, ces groupes ne se comportent pas moins "comme si" leurs propres modes de régulation étaient effectivement juridiques. C'est donc bien une lecture relativiste de la définition du Droit que l'auteur veut faire partager : il ne peut pas, selon lui, exister une seule définition du Droit " positif " ; il peut en revanche fort bien y en avoir deux, l'une et l'autre correctes dans leur ordre et pourtant contradictoires. Denys de Béchillon est chargé de recherche au CNRS et enseigne à l'Université de Pau où il codirige le Groupe de Réflexions Transdisciplinaires. Il est également Secrétaire général de l'Association Française d'Anthropologie du Droit. Remerciements Introduction Présentation Chapitre premier. Généralité Chapitre II. Now the creation of the final Common Frame of Reference (CFR) is one of the most important issues in the field of European Private Law. The volume discusses the key question as to what extent the CFR can and should reflect existing EC Contract Law, and to what extent the DCFR has already incorporated the acquis communautaire. The contributions to this volume try to provide answers to this question by analyzing different controversial areas such as the conclusion and content of the contract (pre-contractual duties, non-discrimination or withdrawal), non-performance, remedies, damages and the relation to International Private Law.

This important book, the fifth in the Civil Procedure in Europe series, provides a comparative overview, of 13 EU countries and Switzerland, on the law of evidence. Each country's practice in this area is described and analysed by a national expert distinguished in the field of civil procedural law. The contributions are written in either English, French or German, and are followed by summaries in both remaining languages.

Bibliographies are included to enable the reader to locate material for further study. A comparative contribution by the editor, Professor Jose Lebre de Freitas, analyses the similarities and differences between the various European systems. Furthermore, the editor discusses attempts to harmonise the law of evidence in Europe and provides concrete suggestions for a future harmonisation or unification of this area of law. The countries covered are Austria, Belgium, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg, The Netherlands, Portugal, Spain, Sweden and Switzerland.

The "European Yearbook" promotes the scientific study of nineteen European supranational organisations and the OECD. The series offers a detailed survey of the history, structure and yearly activities of each organisation and an up-to-date overview of the member states of each organisation. This special anniversary volume celebrates 60 years of publication of the Yearbook, and its contents differs from that of the regular volumes therefore. It offers a selection of the most important articles, dealing with European cooperation and integration, to appear in the Yearbook during its 60 years of publication. These are of particular interest not only because they provide a unique historical snapshot of the many successes (and occasional failures) in the field of European integration but also because they discuss the ideals and aims that lay behind these efforts, many of which still resonate today as Europe confronts questions about its political destiny and ideal shape. This volume contains articles in English and French." Beweisrecht in Der Europäischen Union Springer Science & Business Media

This Liber Amicorum is published at the occasion of Judge Lucius Caflisch's retirement from a distinguished teaching career at the Graduate Institute of International Studies of Geneva, where he served as Professor of International Law for more than three decades, and where he has also held the position of Director. It was written by his colleagues and friends, from the European Court of Human Rights, from universities all around the world, from the Swiss Foreign Affairs Ministry and many other national and international institutions. The Liber Amicorum Lucius Caflisch covers different fields in which Judge Caflisch has excelled in his various capacities, as scholar, representative of Switzerland in international conferences, legal adviser of the Swiss Foreign Affairs Ministry, counsel, registrar, arbitrator and judge. This collective work is divided into three main sections. The first section examines questions concerning human rights and international humanitarian law. The second section is devoted to the international law of spaces, including matters regarding the law of the sea, international waterways, Antarctica, and boundary and territorial issues. The third section addresses issues related to the peaceful settlement of disputes, both generally and with regard to any particular means of settlement. The contributions are in both English and French. Forum Shopping in the European Judicial Area

The essays selected for the first part of this volume offer an insight into the development, as distinguished from the history, of international humanitarian law. The focus of the majority of the works reprinted here is on an analysis of the adequacy of the law as it stood at the time of the respective publication and in the light of existing contemporary armed conflicts and military operations. Thus, the reader is afforded an in-depth look at the early roots of international humanitarian law, the continuing relevance of that body of law despite advances in weapons technology and the efforts to progressively develop it. International humanitarian law's development cannot be considered in isolation from its principles. The essays selected for the second part of the volume deal with the two fundamental principles underlying all of international humanitarian law: humanity and military necessity. The articles on the principles of humanity include reflections on the famous Martens Clause, and the analyses of military necessity take no account of 'Kriegsraison'. Moreover, they offer proof of the customary character of the principle of distinction in land, air and naval warfare.

One of the issues left untouched by the Brussels Convention of 27 September 1968 (and by the Brussels-1 Regulation replacing it) concerns the leeway left to domestic courts when applying European rules on international jurisdiction in civil and commercial matters. For instance, is the court under a duty of strict compliance with the jurisdiction rule as it is drafted? Would such a duty go so far as to require the court to abide by the jurisdiction rule, even though it is being used by one of the litigants to achieve an unfair result, for example to delay adjudication on the merits? Under what conditions may the Court decline jurisdiction on account of any unsuitable forum shopping, thus ruling out the European provision on jurisdiction? Recent litigation in the ECJ has yielded rather, even excessively, restrictive answers, ruling out any discretion by domestic courts to remedy any inconvenience arising from the strict application of the European provisions, if such discretion were provided for by the lex fori (the Gasser case, the Turner case, and the Owusu case). This series of rulings from the ECJ raises several questions. Most observers have questioned the appropriateness of prescribing a blind application of European rules on jurisdiction by domestic courts, relying on the legal traditions of EC Member States usually providing for corrective mechanisms - such as 'forum non conveniens' in English Law and 'exception de fraude' in French Law - in cases when a party abusively triggers the jurisdiction of a court in order to obtain an unjust advantage, thus practising unacceptable forum shopping. The time has now come for an analysis, under both Community and comparative law, of the ramifications of the recent Gasser/Turner/Owusu cases. Readers will find in this book a collection of studies by some of the leading English and French experts today, analysing the ins and outs of jurisdiction and forum shopping in Europe.

La bonne qualité des données est aujourd'hui la clé de voûte de toute organisation. La gestion et l'amélioration de cette qualité sont des tâches coûteuses et difficiles, mais néanmoins incontournables. Cet ouvrage propose une étude des différents outils et démarches qui assistent les spécialistes de la qualité et de la gouvernance des données. À travers les expériences de la communauté francophone animée par l'association ExQI (Excellence Qualité, Information), il présente, avec pédagogie et pragmatisme, un panorama des concepts-clés de la gestion de la qualité des données et leurs déclinaisons dans les entreprises (Business Intelligence, Data Quality Management, Key Performance Indicator, Model Driven Engineering, Master Data Management, etc.). Des solutions théoriques et techniques performantes sont détaillées et de nombreux retours d'expérience permettent d'illustrer les bonnes pratiques à adopter. Mêlant contributions industrielles et académiques, cet ouvrage est un outil de référence en langue française sur la qualité et la gouvernance des données en entreprise.
