An express trust is a trust made by its maker rather than one which has been concluded by the law. The term “expressing the trust” means to personally (typically in writing) declare your office associated with the trust in order to avoid additional presumptions fraudulently used by courts, agents, and others to wrongfully appoint you to the incorrect office associated with your estate.” When dealing with agents such as the clerk of the court, one must be aware that the clerk has full understanding that you are supposed to be listed as being appointed to or operating from the office of the Beneficiary (Administrator), Executor, or both offices. The clerk deceptively lists you as a trustee and appoints the Judge/Magistrate to the remaining office of Executor (Administrator), and the Prosecutor (Plaintiff) the office of Beneficiary in order to attempt to ensure that the Plaintiff benefits and the Judge/Magistrate as well. This book is intended to teach you how to express your role with the trust .

Old Earth, the once-great planet of humankind, is a derelict wasteland of an ancient civilization. Genevieve Harlow lives a mundane life on planet Tau as one of the working class forced to do as her House commands. Her lack of magical aptitude and orphan status make any advancement impossible. The House elites know nothing of Genevieve’s life—why would they—until she stumbles on a secret that will change the nine worlds forever. Liam Anderson, an elite of unknown lineage, makes a living as a relic hunter and purveyor of ancient goods. Some call it smuggling, but the laws are vague at best. But Liam is in the wrong place at the wrong time when his fate becomes intertwined with Genevieve's, putting both their lives in danger. He's running from more than his past, but Genevieve's secret is greater than either of them can possibly imagine. More than one House will do anything to keep them quiet. Myst and Ink is the first in a series of books that blend magic and technology, set 800 years in the future where the Earth has been abandoned for new worlds.

A notary is a public official responsible for independently verifying signatures and oaths. Depending on how a document is written, a notarization serves to affirm the identity of a signer and the fact that they personally executed their signature. A notarization, or notarial act, officially documents the identity of a party to a document or transaction and the occasion of the signing that others can rely upon, usually at face value. A notary's authentication is intended to be reliable, to avoid the inconvenience of having to locate a signer to have them personally verify their signature, as well as to document the execution of a document perhaps long after the lifetime of the signer and the notary. An oath is a sworn statement. In most cases a person will swear that a written statement, oral statement, or testimony they are about to give is true. A notary can document that the notary administered an oath to an individual.

Everybody knows what a notary public does, right? Actually, there is much misunderstanding and confusion about what the proper role and duty of a notary is. A notary public does not "legalize" documents, or verify the accuracy or truthfulness of the content or statements made in a document, and yet the role that a notary plays in ascertaining the identity of the person who signs a document, placing that person under oath, if required, and determining the signer's intent and willingness to consent to the transaction is vital in modern society. A notary public is a public official commissioned by the Secretary of State to administer oaths and affirmations, take acknowledgments, witness signatures, and perform other duties as permitted by state law. A notary should be familiar with the Idaho notary laws and to follow the standards of reasonable care for performing a notarial act.
